

Supporting High-Functioning/Asperger's Students in the School

Dr. Julie Donnelly, an Autism Resource Specialist for Project ACCESS will be providing a one day training that will focus on understanding the student who has average or above average ability but still struggles with the challenges of autism.

Strategies will be discussed that will support these students in school, in their home and in their social life. Though a brief overview of autism will be provided, this workshop is not intended to address the intricacies of diagnosis or the special education process.

Please note: attending the Introduction to Autism training is suggested, but not required, prior to attending this training.
